For Individuals

We passionately believe in the power of pragmatic and future focussed coaching for everyone.

We also believe it needs to be challenging to help you unlock your potential and performance. For that to be possible we know that empathy is key to us establishing a relationship that allows you to be courageous in the pursuit of your goals.

- Our potential is often largely unknown and untapped. Most of us have spent our lives fitting into the boxes, society, organisations, and our families expect us to fit in.
- The reality is none of us are box shaped, we are our own truly wonderful shape, and the magic happens when we understand and fully embrace who we are.
- The beliefs we have about ourselves determine how we live our lives and the way we behave, which can either contain or unlock our potential.
- These beliefs are ours; they determine how we think and therefore act and we'll have created them for positive intent, but they may not be fitting any longer.
- Becoming aware of our beliefs, keeping those that fit and changing those that don't – yes you can change the way you think about and see yourself – will be the thing that helps you change your behaviour.
- This has the brilliant outcome of making you happier, more effective, better able to connect with others and will help you unlock your full potential.

There is nothing more liberating than being truly you, knowing and playing to your strengths, living your life from your heart rather than your head. It makes us better leaders – wherever in life we lead, and better team mates – whatever teams we're part of.

If you'd like to chat to one of our qualified coaches to find out how we can help you, please do get in touch at info@p-u-p.consulting (+44) 07971988606

My first memory of music records was my dad playing blue beat records back in the mid-sixties 64/65, then while at school I wanted to operate the gramophone and play Bach, Beethoven, etc. during assembly which I got to do aged 9/10.

During this time my elder brothers use to buy records - I'd listen and loved dancing. Also during this time one of my brother's good friends Johnny Johnson (aka JJ) was DJing for a sound called Duke Roy I'd go to his house to collect records for my brother to record on his reel to reel ... JJ along with my father and eldest two brothers was a big influence on me musically. JJ played the best soul, ska, rocksteady, and early reggae of the day. By the age of 11 I was buying soul and reggae records of the day and starting playing at friends birthday parties from around age 12/13.

The reggae sound system I followed and was a part of was a sound called Fatman Hi-Fi from the Tottenham area of north London. Fatman Hi-Fi was at the time, one of the top sound systems in England ...

I started to get involved with Fatman Hi-Fi aged 14/15. It was easy for me to get involved with Fatman Hi-Fi as they could see my love for the music and my fourth brother knew these guys well, so they took me under their wing. Fatman Hi-Fi had a record shop in Tottenham north London that I worked in selling records for Fatman so my love for music goes back a long way.

influences

Too many to mention ... Male singers Marvin Gaye, Curtis Mayfield, Michael Jackson James Brown ...not to mention the male groups like Temptations, Four Tops, Isley Brothers female soul singers/groups , Diana Ross, Mary Wells, Dione Warrick, Whitney Houston.

Again, just to mention a few, female groups Supremes , Martha Reeves and the Vandella's...again so many great female groups. Reggae male singers the king of reggae music, (Robert) Bob Marley, the crown prince, Dennis Brown, the cool ruler Gregory Isaac. That's just three...so many more great reggae singers including John Holt, Johnny Clarke, Sugar Minott. Loads more. Just too many to mention

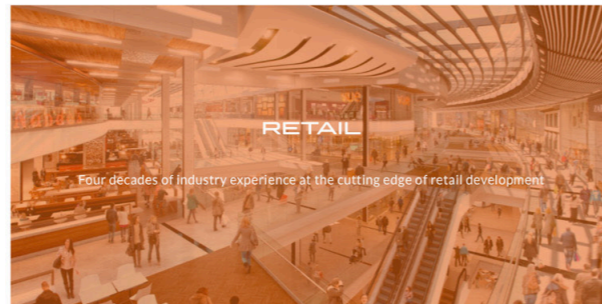

...reggae groups, I loved Heptones, Claradonians...techniques again

WEBSITE & BRAND DEVELOPMENT

An overview of ESSEX SERVICES GROUP PLC

This year we are celebrating our 40th anniversary within the services industry.

Originally founded by John Sampson in 1975, Essex Electrical as it was originally known began by offering electrical contracting services to the retail industry and today deals with MEP design & build projects for some of the world's largest retailers. Expanding the business further during the 1980's Essex Electrical ventured into the emerging banking sector as the Canary Wharf development market took shape.

Integration of a mechanical services division in 2003 and a management buy-out in 2008 resulted in the company taking on its current name, Essex Services Group PLC.

During 2012, the company expanded again adding Technology Solutions to the services we provide. A dedicated team of experienced professionals deal with Data Centre projects throughout the United Kingdom and mainland Europe.

We see this sector as an area for growth over the coming years and see it playing an integral role in the company's future development.

The staff at ESG look to make use of new innovations and technology wherever possible, constantly asking challenging questions and driving value in order to achieve the most cost effective and efficient results. We are committed to upholding high ethical standards in all of our work and lead by example, act responsibly and make a positive contribution to every project. Offering a collaborative approach with a focus on project delivery, sharing knowledge, insights and ideas through a commitment to the highest standards of workmanship our aim is to add value to our work and exceed client expectations.

These values, instilled in the company by the founding directors still hold true, focus on quality, efficiency, and communication ensures that ESG PLC maintain a competitive edge within a challenging marketplace.

Mark Sampson
Managing Director Essex Services Group PLC

ESG Operates across six industry sectors: Residential, Hotels & Student Accommodation, Retail, Commercial, Public & Education and Contract Services, with an annual turnover of over £70 million for MEP contracts.

We make 'commercial sense' – delivering value on all projects where quality and bottom line performance go hand in hand.

Home Automation & System Integration

A home automation system will monitor and control home attributes such as lighting, climate, entertainment systems, and appliances. It may also include home security such as access control and alarm systems.

Creating a 'smart' home allows you to control and enjoy your home environment in a multitude of ways. This can cover heating & lighting systems, full house entertainment with audio and video through to control of home devices, connected through the Internet of Things ("IoT").

A home automation system typically connects controlled devices to a central hub or "gateway".

The user interface for control of the system uses either wall-mounted terminals, tablet or desktop computers, a mobile phone application, or a Web interface that may also be accessible off-site through the Internet.

Home automation has high potential for sharing data between family members or trusted individuals for personal security and could lead to energy saving measures with a positive environmental impact in the future.

Heating, ventilation and air conditioning: it is possible to have remote control of all home energy monitors over the internet incorporating a simple and friendly user interface.

Lighting control system: a "smart" network that incorporates communication between various lighting system inputs and outputs, using one or more central computing devices.

Occupancy-aware control system: it is possible to sense the occupancy of the home using smart meters

CCTV & security applications: a household security system integrated with a home automation system can provide additional services such as remote surveillance of security cameras over the Internet, or access control and central locking of all perimeter doors and windows.

Leak detection, smoke and CO detectors

Smart Kitchen and Connected Cooking. Voice control devices like Amazon Alexa or Google Home used to control home appliances or systems. setups. This allows consumers to monitor their homes while away, and to give trusted family members access to that information in case anything bad happens.

Home Theatre HD TV & state of the art home theatre systems.

Advances in sound and image delivery technology can make your home cinema an even better experience than going to a commercial theater. Beyond the entry-level home theater setups - a flat-screen TV and basic audio system, whether it's a simple soundbar or something more robust - there are abundant options for dedicated home theaters.

A qualified CEDIA member home technology professional can work with you to design and install the ideal home theater system to fit your specific entertainment needs. When consulting with a CEDIA professional, it is important to have an idea how your home theater room will be used.

Will it be an exclusive place for viewing movies?

Will it be a multi-media room with cable or satellite connection, a gaming console and high-end audio components?

A customized home theater system has numerous possibilities.

Another concern: What's around the theater?

Most homeowners want sound isolation in their home cinemas, so that outside sounds stay out, and the Hollywood sound effects don't bother others in the home.

CEDIA MEMBER

leotechsystems.co.uk

The Components

A dedicated home theater has three fundamental components: a display unit, speakers, and source components.

The Display

Simply put, this is what you watch. Options range from a simple flat-screen TV (and many of the 4K OLED screens available provide stunning images) to a projector/screen setup similar to those you'd find in a commercial theater. Digital laser projectors and acoustically-transparent screens (which allow center-channel "dialog" speakers to be placed behind them without any loss of audio quality) can match or surpass what you'd see at a cineplex.

Speakers

Speakers can both enhance and blend in with the room's décor. Optimal placement and calibration of your speakers will ensure clarity of dialogue and powerful yet balanced sound, transporting you into the on-screen action.

Current audio formats range from what's now a fairly common "5.1" surround setup to 3D, immersive audio that includes overhead speakers that provide sound from nearly every direction.

Source Components

Audio receivers, Blu-ray players, streaming devices, and other components deliver the picture and sound to the speakers and display. These components need to be carefully chosen, cabled, installed, and cooled properly for optimal performance and long life.

For further information on Home Theatre systems installation contact us on 07843 093721 or email: enquiry@leotechsystems.co.uk
